Headline:
Dry with sunny spells and light winds today. Chilly overnight.

Today:
After a chilly start, it will be a fine and dry day, with some decent spells of sunshine, especially into the afternoon. Feeling pleasant in the sunshine inland, but still on the chilly side along the east coast. Light winds. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Overnight will be fine and dry, with clear spells. It will be another chilly night, with a touch of frost and possibly some mist and fog patches forming in places. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Sunday:
Another chilly, but dry and bright start to the day. However, it will turn increasingly cloudy and breezy from the north, with some outbreaks of rain arriving later. Feeling cooler. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
A change to much colder conditions this week, with strong northerly winds bringing frequent showers of hail and snow, especially exposed windward coasts and hills. Becoming less cold on Wednesday.
